The Draft.

From the Lyons (N. Y.) Republican, In Lyons every jewelry store has a man drawn. In Westport, six men signed an agreement to contribute equally toward the payment of the exemption fee of any of their number who might be drafted .--On the morning of the draft, however, one of them, by some means, obtained possession of the paper and crased his name pleasure of learning that of the six men he was the only one drafted. In another town six persons formed a similar association. Afterwards six others were permitted to join. When the drawing took place, every one of the last six drew "prizes," and not one of the first six.

COLORED MEN REPORTING FOR DUTY.

From the Philadelphia Lodger, Aug 11. Among the only conscripts who have yet reported for duty are six colored men, who on Saturday made their appearance before the board in the fourth district, and announced their readiness to don the uniform. They were equipped and sent to Camp William Penn. As the time for reporting for duty has been extended in this district, in order to permit claims for exemption, no drafted men except the above were reported. These six colored men had of so unsuitable a burden, and assume concluded that they might as well shoulder | your entire charge and expense during the the musket at once, as they had no ground next three years, without the slightest reon which to base a claim to exemption. A number of colored men have been before the board, and been exempted on account of physical defects. Others have brought substitutes, of their own color, and had them accepted.

INCIDENTS IN OSWEGO.

From the Oswego Times, August 11. Before the draft occurred in this city, a party of seventeen gentlemen formed a party for the purpose of insuring each other against the conscription. Five out of the number were fortunate enough to draw ickets. This would make a "draft" upon the purse of each member of a fraction over eighty-eight dollars. It happens, however, that one of the "conscripts" is physically exempt, and all that is necessary for him to obtain a certificate of exemption is to present the proper papers. This course his copartners desire him to take, while he emphatically objects, using as an argument that he was fully aware before he entered into the agreement that he could not be compelled to perform service, and that had no such agreement been made, he should not have availed himself of his disability, but would have paid the three hundred dol lars, or furnished a substitute. He has the best case, both legally and in a patriotic aansa.

A DRAFTED CLERGYMAN—HE DETERMINES TO SHOULDER THE MUSKET.

Rev. W. J. Potter, Unitarian elergyman, in New Bedford, Mass., was among the draited in that town, and on the Sunday succeeding the day when he was drawn, preached a sermon declaring his intention to go. The discourse was founded on Second Timothy, iv., 5: "Make full proof of thy ministry." Mr. Potter defended the conscription act at length, and in conclusion gave the following as the considerations which had induced him to determine

"First, the value of the moral element in an army, is to be considered, and alongside of this, the moral effect of men leaving positions of usefulness and comfort and honor to enter the army. If our cause is the just and sacred cause that most of us believe it to be, then no man among us is too good, or stands in too high a position. to give himself to it or for it, in whatever way the country may call for his services. And the better and more enlightened the men are who go to make up the army, the purer and higher becomes the cause, and the more it becomes linked with the truest and holiest interests of the country, and the more elevated and earnest becomes the patriotism of the country. Moreover, this war has proved, if it was not proved before. that it is not bad men, or rough men, or always men of the stoutest bodies, that make the best soldiers, but that character, earnestness, faith, serve in an army, as everywhere else. Not the low population of our cities brought up to fighting, but youths delicately nurtured in wealthy and refined homes, and polished with the culture of colleges, have done some of the best service as soldiers in this war. Other things being equal, the trner a man is in character, the better soldier will he make. And when other things are not equal, solidity of character and a heart in the cause will often strength. Secondly, men who might choose the alternative of staying at home ought to consider their duties toward those who, on account of their circumstances, must accept the alternative of going. The great complaint against the draft has been, that the rich and cultivated-those who can easily command $300-would remain at home, while the poorer class would be obliged to go. Now every one, if possible, ought to so act that there shall be left no show of justice in this complaint. Every drafted man who is not kept at home by very im. portant considerations-every one who might stay at home, but oan go-ought to go for this reason, if no other: the encouragement and support of those who must go. Let it be seen that this draft is a fair thing, and that we mean to abide by it fairly: and that it is a democratic thing, the rich and poor, the educated and the uneducated, the man who labors with his hands and the man who labors with his brains, as they all have an equal interest in the and dontments for lumors and Buils country's preservation so all standing aids. All his Medicine is warrunted free from of some is country's preservation, so all standing side by side and shoulder to shoulder in its de-

Thirdly, and finally, in some respects the most important consideration of all—what is most needed now for putting an effectual | end to this rebellion with all it causes and consequences, is a general uprising of the people to the support of the government—

Let the people of all classes not merely show submission, but respond with alacrity to this draft, each one going to his place in the army as to a post of solemn duty, and not only would the war soon come to an end, but the ata-en, now come ready in hand and heart for the service to which our country calls ussuch a spectacle would be a grander exhibitton than was that first unrising of the people at the outset of the war, and an army so formed would be pobler in its determination than even an army of volunteers. God grant that I could be one in such an army! God grant, and the pater otic hearts of this community grant, that there may be many to stand with me! Could such an army spring up, I doubt it it would ever have to march out of the loval states; for it would be the army of the invincible fates-as the host of Heaven's retributive justice: and rebellion, violence. treason, oppression, lawless rage, and eve therefrom, and in the afternoon he had the ry foul wrong of war that now devastates our land, would shrink from before it into the darkness of am indiction; and law, libcrty and peace would be established in triumph, and forever, over a reclaimed country. ONE OF A DUNDRED.

A rural conscript appeared before the astern board of enrollment a day or two since, says the Providence Journal, and desired to be exempted forthwich, that he might return to his country home. "What are your claims?" demanded the doctor. "I am entirely dependent upon my mother for support?" was the innocent reply. Whereupon, thus the doctor replied, while a smile faintly illumined the face of the board; "I am happy to assure you, my honest hearted friend, that the government is prepared at once to relieve your mother course to the maternal fount for support or nuccor." The young draftee appeared a

DAILY GAZETTE.

The Braft.

From the Lyons (N. Y.,) Republican. In Lyons every jewelry store: has a man. drawn. In Westport, six men signed an agreement to contribute equally toward the payment of the exemption fee of any of their number who might be drafted. On the morning of the draft, however, one of them, by some means, obtained posses-sion of the paper and erased his name therefrom, and in the afternoon he had the pleasure of learning that of the six men he was the only one drafted. In another town six persons formed a similar association. Afterwards six others were permitted to join. When the drawing took place, every one of the last six drew "prizes," and not one of the first six.

COLORED MEN REPORTING FOR DUTY.

From the Philadelphia Ledger, Aug. 11. Among the only conscripts who have yet reported for duty are six colored men, who on Saturday made their appearance before the board in the fourth district, and announced their readiness to don the uniform. They were equipped and sent to Camp William Penn. As the time for re-porting for duty has been extended in this district, in order to permit claims for exemption, no drafted men except the above were reported. These six colored men had concluded that they might as well shoulder the musket at once, as they had no ground on which to base a claim to exemption. A number of colored men have been before the board, and been exempted on account of physical defects. Others have brought substitutes, of their own color, and had them accepted. INCIDENTS IN OSWEGO.

From the Oswego Times, August 11. Before the draft occurred in this city, a party of seventeen gentlemen formed a party for the purpose of insuring each other against the conscription. Five out of the number were fortunate enough to draw ickets. This would make a "draft" upon the purse of each member of a fraction over eighty-eight dollars. It happens, however, that one of the "conscripts" is physically exempt, and all that is necessary for him to obtain a certificate of exemption is to present the proper papers. This course his copartners desire him to take, while he emphatically objects, using as an argument that he was fully aware before he entered CAPITAL AND SURPLUS, into the agreement that he could not be compelled to perform service, and that had no such agreement been made, he should not have availed himself of his disability, but would have paid the three hundred dol-lars, or furnished a substitute. He has the best case, both legally and in a patriotic

A DRAFTED CLEEGYMAN—REDETERMINES TO SHOULDER THE MUSKET.

Rev. W. J. Potter, Unitarian-clergyman in New Bedford, Mass., was among the drafted in that towo, and on the Sunday succeeding the day when he was drawn, preached a sermon declaring his intention to go. The discourse was founded on Second Timothy, iv., 5: "Make full proof of thy ministry." Mr. Potter defended the conscription act at length, and in conclusion gave the following as the considerations which had induced him to determine to go:

"First, the value of the moral element in an army, is to be considered, and alongside of this, the moral effect of men leaving positions of usefulness and comfort and bonor to enter the army. If our cause is the instand secred cause that most of us believe it to be, then no man among us is too good, or stands in too high a position. to give himself to it or for it, in whatever way the country may call for his services. And the better and more enlightened the men are who go to make up the army, the purer and higher becomes the cause, and the more it becomes linked, with the truest and holiest interests of the country, and the more elevated and earnest becomes the patriotism of the country. Moreover, this war has proved, if it was not proved before, that it is not bad men, or rough men, or always men of the stoutest bodies, that make the best soldiers, but that character, earnestness, faith; serve in an army, as everywhere else. Not the low population of our cities brought up to fighting, but youths delicately nurtured in wealthy and refined homes, and polished with the culture of colleges, have done some of the best service as soldiers in this war. Other things being equal, the truer a man is in character, the better soldier will be make. And when other things are not equal, solidity of charmore than make up for deficiency of bodily acter and a heart in the cause will often strength. Secondly, men who might choose the al ternative of staying at home ought to consider their daties toward those who, on account of their circumstances, must accept the alternative of going. The great com-plaint against the draft has been, that the rich and cultivated-those who can easily command $300-would remain at home, while the poorer class would be obliged to go. Now every one, if possible, ought to so act that there shall be left no show of justice in this complaint. Every drafted man who is not kept at home by very important considerations-every one who might stay at home, but can go-ought to go for this reason, if no other: the encouragement and support of those who must go. Let it be seen that this draft is a fair thing, and that we mean to abide by it fair ly; and that it is a democratic thing, the rich and poor, the educated and the nueducated, the man who labors with his hands and the man who lahors with his brains, as they all have an equal, intercat in the country's preservation, so all standing side by side and shoulder to shoulder in its de-

Thirdly, and finally, in some respects the most important consideration of all—what is most needed now for putting an effectual end to this rebellion with all it causes and end to this rebellion with all it causes and consequences, is a general uprising of the people to the support of the government—Yor sale by G. Anderson of 161 North Gard Store, to be added to the service of the sale by the call of the people o to the support of it against not only rebel-lion in the south, but against secret treason and open violence at home. Let the people of all classes not merely show submission but respond with-alacrity to this draft, each one going-to his place in the army cs to a post of solemn duty, and not only would the war soon come to an end, but the stability of republican institutions would be insured forever. The spectacle of a great insured forever. The spectacle of a great people, including all classes, thus rising cheerfully and harmonicusly together to meet the demands of a draft—saying to one another, our sons and brothers whou could another, our sons and brothers who could accurate the control of the country body wood, which we will deliver to any part of the elect who wish can go and select it themselves. the service to which our country calls nssuch a speciacio would be a grander exhibition than was that first uprising of the people at the outset of the war, and an army so formed would be nobler in its determination than even an army of volunteers. God grant that I could be one in such an army! God grant, and the patriotic hearts of this community grant, that there may be many to stand with me! Could such an army spring up, I doubt if it would ever have to march out of the loyal states; for it would be the army of the invincible fates—as the host of Heaven's retributive justice; and rebellion, violence, en, now come ready in hand and heart for treason, oppression, lawless rage, and every foul wrong of war that now devastates our land, would shrink from before it into the darkness of annihilation; and law, liberty and peace would be established in triamph, and forever, over a reclaimed coun-177.

ONE OF A HUNDRED. A rural conscript appeared before the eastern board of enrollment a day or two since, says the Providence Journal, and desired to be exempted forthwith, that he might return to his country home. "What are your claims?" demanded the doctor.
"I am entirely dependent upon my mother for support!" was the innocent reply. Wherenpon, thus the doctor replied, while a smile faintly illumined the face of the board: "I am happy to assure you, my honest hearted friend, that the government is prepared at once to relieve your mother of so unsuitable a burden, and assume your entire charge and expense during the next three years, without the slightest recourse to the maternal fount for support or succor." The young draftee appeared a little bewildered, and referred to his papers to ascertain what was the matter.

They expected it would .-All of them wished for it, and many of them the territory they then had to freedom. men who made the constitution, there was gradually disappear. We should be exceedingly glad to see slavery "as it was" when the constitution was framed. We ask for nothing better.

2. It is true that the American republic has prospered and strengthened, but it was in spite of the existence of slavery. Wherever that institution exists the country is evidently far behind what it would have been if it had not existed. Ohio and Kentucky, Illinois and Missouri, and Massa chusetts and | South Carolina, are contrasting examples. Slavery is opposed to civiliention, and has a tendency to bring the civilized man to barbarism. The people of the south have been gradually approaching the condition of the African in manners, language and habits. It levels mankind downward. That is the reason why, previous to the rebellion, we desired to have it restricted from expansion, and why we now | ing the requisite number of those already hope for its total extinction, under the war

3. The destruction of slavery in the revolted states will not perpetuate civil war, on stitution to enable the government to take the slaves from their masters, or use them for war purposes, giving them at the same time freedom. If the government has a right to make war at all to enforce the laws, it can do this as one of the most effectual means of suppressing the rebellion. The old constitution and the old Union would remain though slavery were blotted out of every state. The constitution was established " to secure the blessings of liberty" to this people, and surely it cannot be necessary to preserve slavery that lib-4. When the south claimed to take their slaves into national territories the north had rightfully something to do with slavery. It had a duty to perform, as well as a right to exercise, and that was to exclude this evil institution from blighting what belonged to us. The north elected a president soon as war existed it was clothed with bilities. One of its duties was to use the not come. slave in the war; and to prepare him for that, to make the most of him for this purpose, he must be made free, that his blows upon the heads of traitors might be given with a will. If an individual rebels he loses his rights-if all the people of a state revolt, or nearly all of them, the state forfeits its rights as a member of the Union. This is the law of war, and it is by that authority that the national government can use a freedman or any number of them living in such state, to make war upon and overcome the revolutionists.

When the turmoil of civil war ends by the subjugation and punishment of those who have rebelled, are these slaves made free to fight our battles, or to prevent them from raising food for the enemy, to be reatored under any pretence whatever to and generously supported, to its efforts to put down the those who have resisted the government? Are they ever to be reduced to bondage again under any master, loyal or disloyal? No people could commit so great a crime as that and live. They would not be fit to to cumber the earth, after such base ingratitude. Having natures so capable of meanness and dishonor, they would soon butcher each other, or become the prey of a superior race. They would, in some way, cease to exist, and this would be a righteous retribution. If these freedmen are never to be re-enslaved, how can slavery be "as it was" in the revolted states, included in the president's proclamation? It never can be. There is no usurpation here .--"alayery as it was." The federal constitu. War has done it all-war, inaugurated by the loyal men. The speakers were Springtion leaves "slavery as it was." (1.) Where there is a will, if the cause be righteous, there need be no apprehension that we shall discover a fitting way, if we do not fail to apppreciate the magnitude of the undertaking, and equander in spaamodic, disconnected efforts the strength that should be exerted in accordance with a well-weighed and concerted plan. The first thing to be attained is obviously a perfect understanding among the friends f the constitution throughout the loyal states. We must ascertain, through the ordinary methods of preliminary political action, what is the probable number of bold, courageous, determined men, who are sufficiently masters of themselves and of the passions generated in a vehement struggle, to submit their conduct to the wise direction requisite for attaining the unity by which strength is economized, and a movement clothed with the moral power that will render it formidable to the fees of the constitution. We are to start, then, with a full determination not to be put down, and ted States colors, in particular, being more with the fullest exercise of that right of appeal to the public judgment which is the mainspring of all political action under free governments. And again, in the following closing paragraph from the second editorial article in the same paper: "Mr. Lincoln is politically blind if he

The paper that thus dures openly and

Seymour. Do the loyal people of the north-do the peace-loving people of this city, living quietly in their own homes, want any further warning of the designs of these revolutionists! How much they may be able to achieve, how far they may be able to spread war and destruction of life and property over the north, are questions yet to be solved. Have we blood to spare, or do we hate the old Union so heartily, that we would perpetuate civil war, in order to establish a new constitution and a new government, based upon a sectional and partigan platfrom? (3.)

We of the north have rightfully nothing the annihilation of the government as it was made. By what anthority do you propropose to abolish the control of the states over their local institutions, reducing states to provinces of the general government? By what authority do you demand of the people that they shall expend their lives and substance for a political platform hostile to the constitution? Who commissionour party by usurnations of power to set up a government unauthorized by the

to establish new relations between the federal and state governments they will lawfully assemble in their conventions or legislatures, and amend the constitution, as provided in that instrument itself. Whether slavery remains "as it was" or not, the people certainly do not intend that a sectional minority party shall establish for us new institutions by the issuance of paper proclamations. (4.)

1. Very true. The fathers put very little into the constitution about slavery. They made it so that it would remain "as it was," without alteration, if slavery should go out of existence. They expected it would,-All of them wished for it, and many of them predicted that it would "die out." They saw that it was a blot upon our good name, and were ashamed to put the word slave into the constitution. At the very time when the constitution was made, following guerrilla and bushwhacking force in that the lead of Mr. Jefferson, they dedicated all the territory they then had to freedom. They prohibited slavery from all this great northwest country, of which Wisconsin is a part. With slavery thus restricted by the men who made the constitution, there was no other expectation than that it would gradually disappear. We should be exceedingly glad to see slavery "as it was " when the constitution was framed. We ask for nothing better.

2. It is true that the American republic has prospered and strengthened, but it was in spite of the existence of slavery. Wherever that institution exists the country is evidently far behind what it would have been if it had not existed. Ohio and Kentucky, Illinois and Missouri, and Massachusetts and (South Carolina, are contrasting examples. Slavery is opposed to civiliention, and has a tendency to bring the civilized man to barbarism. The people of the south have been gradually approaching the condition of the African in manners, language and habits. It levels mankind downward. That is the reason why, previous to the rebellion, we desired to have it restricted from expansion, and why we now hope for its total extinction, under the war drafted. power of the government.

3. The destruction of slavery in the revolted states will not perpetuate civil war, on the contrary it will destroy that monster .-We believe that the war would not have lasted one year if freedom had been offered to the slave in the beginning, and the negroes enlisted into our armies to fight the rebels. We had clearly the right to do that by the law of nations, and there is nothing in the constitution which guarantees to a rebel the possession of his slave while-his life and property are forfeited for his treafrom . We need not alter a word in the con Great heat and little rain to-day.

stitution to enable the government to take the slaves from their masters, or use them for war purposes, giving them at the same time freedom. If the government has a right to make war at all to enforce the laws, it can do this as one of the most effectual means of suppressing the rebellion. The old constitution and the old Union would remain though slavery were blotted out of every state. The constitution was established "to secure the blessings of liberty" to this people, and surely it cannot be necessary to preserve slavery that liberty may exist!

4. When the south claimed to take their slaves into national territories the north had rightfully something to do with slavery. It had a duty to perform, as well as a right to exercise, and that was to exclude this evil institution from blighting what belonged to us. The north elected a president and a congress to do this for them, but before it was accomplished the slaveholders copperheads were coming across to burn had not power to free a single slave—as soon as war existed it was clothed with new powers, new duties, and new responsi- the appearance of the rascals, but they did bilities. One of its duties was to use the not come. slave in the war; and to prepare him for that, to make the most of him for this purpose, he must be made free, that his blows to day, by Col, Lucius Fairchild, where they upon the heads of traitors might be given with a will. If an individual rebels he loses his rights—if all the people of a state revolt, or nearly all of them, the state forfeits its rights as a member of the Union. This is the law of war, and it is by that authority that the national government can use a freedman or any number of them living in such state, to make war open and overcome the revolutionists.

When the turmoil of civil war ends by the subjugation and punishment of those who have rebelled, are these slaves made exempt poor men from the draft, by furfree to fight our battles, or to prevent them from raising food for the enemy, to be restored under any pretence whatever to and generously supported, in its efforts to put down the those who have resisted the government? Are they over to be reduced to bondage again under any master, loyal or disloyal? No people could commit so great a crime committees that the conventions for the election of as that and live. They would not be fit to to cumber the earth, after such base ingratitude. Having natures so capable of meanness and dishonor, they would soon butcher each other, or become the prey of a superior race. They would, in some way, cease to exist, and this would be a righteous retribution. If these freedmen are never to What do the copporheads mean when they reitorate beir demand that the Union shall be restored "as it was." War has done it all-war, inaugurated by tion leaves "slavery as it was." (1.) The the slaveholders. They made the war, and American republic won all its strength, they must abide its consequences. This is constitutional, too. The cld constitution, "as it is," is capable of all this, because it government different from that our fathers provides for a state of war; and noder this power it can do anything that any other civilized nation can do, to subdue its enemy.

Whon the war is over, if it results in liberty to all, no new relations in regard to the states will have to be established. Our government will then be in its normal conto do with slavery "as it was" or as it government will then be in its normal conought to be. We can have nothing to do dition, which it has not been these many with it as it was or ought to be, except by years, and "liberty and Union will be one and inseparable."

Last Night's Report.

PEORIA, Ill., August 14. Special to Chicago Tribune.—Last night Provost Marshal Westlake, of the 9th disrict, with a detachment of cavalry, made descent on a nest of some two hundred copperheads and deserters in Isabel township, Fulton county, capturing some ten or dozen, and, as report says, killing several Among those captured was a man named Lane, who was engaged in taking away the books of the enrolling officer in that township a week or so ago. Great excitement exists in that section. and report says the copperheads are running to arms to drive the cavalry out of the county. The people of Havana, on the opposite side of the Illinois river, were alarmed to-day by a report that the Isabel marshals owns some warehouses. They immediately closed their places of business, and shouldered their muskets and awaited Madison, Wis., August 14.

The old colors of the 2d Wisconsin regiment were deposited in the governor's office will be carefully preserved and treasured and protected with the greatest care. The colors are sadly tattered and torn—the United States colors, in particular, being more than half carried away, and the staff badly shattered by shot.

They have been carried through fourteen battles and skirmishes, commencing with the first battle of Bull Run and ending with Gettysburg. NEW YORK, Aug. 14.

Commodore Henry W. Morris, United States navy, died to-day. The common council passed an ordi nance to-day appropriating $3,000,000 to nishing anbstitutes. Firemen are exempted therefrom without regard to their pecu-southwest from this city yesterday. A respectable farmer from there informs me that the boldest treason was sponted, the administration denounced, the south sympathized with, the draft denounced and resistance to it recommended. Some of the prominent democrats of this section were greatly alarmed at the sentiments of the speakers, and did not endorse them, while the Union men look upon it that such things cannot long go on without producing a collision between the disloyal and the loyal men. The speakers were Springer, Herndon, Keiss and Campbell, of this city. Cheers were given for Jeff. Davis and Vallandigham.

Forewarned -- Forearmed.

We ask the people of this city, and wherever else this sheet may reach, to carefully read and thoughtfully consider the following opening paragraph from the leading editorial of yesterday's World: "It is now at length evident to all but the wilfully blind, that THE RESCUE OF THE CONSTITUTION PROM THE HANDS OF ITS UP-FICIAL VIOLATORS REQUIRES A VIGOROUS AND DETERMINED STRUGGLE. The precise neasures to be adopted for this purpose must depend, in part, upon future contingencies; and there is needed the greatest visdom and caution, as well as pluck and resolution, that the effort may not miscarry by irretriveable false steps and precipitate action. Where there is a will, if the cause be righteous, there need be no apprehension that we shall discover a fitting way, if we do not fail to apppreciate the magnitude of the undertaking, and squander in spasmodic, disconnected efforts the strength that should be exerted in accordance with a well-weighed and concerted plan. The first thing to be attained is obviously a perfect understanding among the friends of the constitution throughout the loyal ravolted. Previous to this the government the place, where one of the deputy provost states. We must ascertain, through the ordinary methods of preliminary political action, what is the probable number of hold, courageous, determined men, who are sufficiently masters of themselves and of the passions generated in a vehewent straggle, to submit their conduct to the wise direction requisite for attaining the unity by which strength is economized, and a move ment clothed with the moral power that will render it formidable to the fees of the constitution. We are to start, then, with a full determination not to be put down, and with the fullest exercise of that right of appeal to the public judgment which is the muinspring of all political action under governments. The sabsequent steps will develop themselves with the progress of events."

And again, in the following closing paragraph from the second editorial article in the same paper :

"Mr. Lincoln is politically blind if he does not perceive that this question is FAST PASSING REYOND THE DUMAIN OF ARGUMENT. More democrats will be left in New York than he can take away conscripts to the war, and it behooves him to consider whether our armies in the south will be really strengthened by a proceeding which while CREATE A NECESSILY FOR LARGE ARMIES IN every loyal state."

The paper that thus dures openly and unresevedly to call upon those to whom it addresses itself to prepare for a "vigorous and determined struggle" to overthrow the government, and not (as in the late riots) o "squander in spagmedic, disconnected efforts the strength that should be exerted in occordance with a well-weighed and con-certed plan; "-the paper that thus threatens the President of the United States that if he executes the laws he will "create a necessity for large armies in every loyal state: "-this paper is the mouth-piece of Gov. Seymour. Do the loyal people of the north-do the peace loving people of this city, living quietly in their own homes, want any further warning of the designs of these revolutionists! How much they may be able to achieve, how far they may be able to spread war and destruction of life and property over the north, are questions yet to be solved. But that such is their intention we have their own word for it, and it will be wiser for as to heed it in good season .- New York Tribune.

GEN. GRANT LOOKS AFTER THE SOL-DIERS.—A correspondent of the Cleveland Herald relates the following: "The steamer Hope had about 1,000 so!-

liers and 250 officers on board, on route for home on short leave of absence, after the fatigues of their protracted campaign. The captain of the Hope had charged these men and officers from $10 to $25 apiece as fare to Cairo. Just as the hoat was about to push off from the wharf at Vicksburg, nilitary circles of our city, and in fact of an order came from Gen. Grant requiring the captain to pay back his passengers all most absolute harmony of purpose and of money received by him as fare in excess of action appears to exist between the nation- five dollars to enlisted men, and seven dollars to officers, or submit to imprisonment fact that yesterday Gov. Seymour issued for disobedience, and have his boat confisorders for the issuing of large numbers cated. The order was an astonisher to the of new arms to several of the city regicaptain, but the presence of a gazid renormed that the order in help and the contract of the contract shouts of the soldiers over Gen. Grant's care of their interests, he complied with as good grace as possible, and paid back the money. Gur informent, himself a passenger on the Hope, was present when Gen. G. issued the order above referred to. The general, upon being informed of the impositions being practiced upon furloughed men and officers, by steamboat men, was very indignant. "I will teach them, if they need the lesson," said the gallant general, "that the men who have periled their lives to open the Mississippi river for their benegt, can not be imposed upon with impu-

THE SKULL AN ENLARGED VERTEBRA. The doctrine, now partially established, that the skull is a development of a joint of the spinal bone, or vertebral column, as it is technically called, had its origin in a audden inspiration of the poet Goethe. In the beginning of May, 1790, says a writer in the Paris Revue des Deux Mondes, he was at Venice. As he was walking one day in the cemetery of the Israelitee, his domestic picked up a sheep's skull, and jestingly presented it to him as a lew's head. Goethe looked at the base of the skull, whitened by time, and was struck with its analogy to the vertebral column; he had an intuition that the skull is but a continuation of the vertebral column, as the brain is but a continuation of the spinal marrow. The honor of the discovery belongs to him.

In 1808, continues the writer, a Frenchman, named Constant Dumvil, recognized the analogy of the muscles which arise from the trunk at the fore part of the head with those which hold together the vertebra, and he was going on in his turn to discover the analogy of the head with the spinal column, but he was stopped by a pleasantry. Cuvier, who did not like presumption, in receiving Dumvil at one of his soirees, asked him, laughing, for news about his thinking vertebra. Dumvil had not the courage to persist in his opinion, or to continue his reserches.

BERRIES. -Berries of all kinds have been abundant in this section this season strawberries, black and red raspberries. whortleberries, and now the blackberries are ripening. Our people are gathering Wheat unsettled, prime, scarce and them in abundance for preserving, making wine, &c. We are informed that one family have picked about one hundred quart of raspberries, and others nearly that amount. It is no job to pick 10 or 12 quarts a day. We imprine some of our southern friends would be glad to leave their cultivated fruit and spend a few day here during the berry season .- Warsaw Central Wisconsin.

ANOTHER CASE OF SHOOTING. Of the first day of the week, Mr. P. Mesick of the city, while out gunning, was hadly wounded in the face and breast by the discharge of a shot gun in the hands of a companion His left eye is entirely destroyed, and it is feared that some of the shot have penetrated to his longs. He now lies in a very critical condition.

Too much care cannot be exercised in the use of fire arms. This week we record two cases of the mutilation of persons by what rust be considered as pure careless ness.—16.

TROUBLE IN THE LEE FAMILY .-- A WOman, formerly a slave of Custis Lee, the eldest son of Gen. Lee, and on Jeff. Davis' staff, arrived in Washington, from Rich mond, on the 10th. She represents that there is great excitement in the Lee famiy at Richmond, over the expected hanging of Sawyer and Flynn by the rebel government. The people demand that the sentence shall be executed, while Gen. Lee, whose son, Fitzhugh, is held by our goveroment as a hostage for Sawver and Flynn, demands that Davis shall prevent their execution, and threatens, if his son is hung by us in retaliation, that he will resign his position in the rebel army and leave the confederacy.

SIGNIFICANT .- The Mobile News of the 3d says: "We have a multitude of reports horribly detrimental to the character of the patriotism of the people in many places in Alabama and Mississippi; some of them too disgraceful to publish. A portion of our people have gone stark mad. They are bastard southerners and recreant conlederates.'' Accidental Shooting .- On Wednesday of last week Mr. J. W. Goewey of this city while standing on a wheat stack was badly shot by the accidental discharge of a gur in the hands of a sportsman. The whole harge lodged in his arm and breast making a horrible wound, from which he has suffered greatly, but there is good prospecof his recovery.—Beloit Journal. It was the opening or laying out of a road or highway from Fanshaw's southwest corner, to Jonathan Church's southwest corner, that was referred to a special committee (the necessary publication having been made) consisting of S. C. Burnham, L. F. Patten and A. C. Bates. We also stated that the grade of Pleasant street west of the railroad was ordered on file. The grade was filed and established weeks ago. It was a profile giving the aggregate front length of lots on Pleasant street, also the front length of each lot &c., that was ordered on file.

Third Ward Caucus

The Republican and Union voters of the Third Ward in the city of Janeaville, will most at the office of Levi Alden, on SATURDAY, August FIFTEENTH, at eight o'clock P. M., to choose delegates to attend the Senstorial convention to be held at the court room on Monday, the 17th inst. J. M. BURGESS.

S. H. CULVER, S. L. JAMES, Committee.

CORRECTION.-In our report of the proceedings of the council in last evening's paper, we should have seid the aldermen of the first ward were authorized to prosecute Patrick Burns for keeping a nuisance &c., instead of the third ward. We also said there was a break in the proceedings of opening Academy street, and the matter was referred to a special committee. The proceedings of opening Academy street were correct. It was the opening or laying out of a road or highway from Fanshaw's southwest corner, to Jonathan Church's southwest corner, that was referred to a special committee (the necessary publication having been made) consisting of S. C. Burnham, L. F. Patten and A. C. Bates. We also stated that the grade of Pleasant street west of the railroad was ordered on file. The grade was filed and established weeks ago. It was a profile giving the aggregate front length of lots on Pleas ant street, also the front length of each lot

THE HUNTERS AT BRODHEAD .- Quite a lot of game was sent in yesterday by the Janesville hunters who are slaying prairie chickens in Green county. We were quite astonished at the share which fell to the Gazette office. The Independent says:

&c., that was ordered on file.

To-day the ball opens for sportsmen, but it is death to the chickens. Both Milwaukee and Janesville are liberally represented by the legitimate descendents of Nimrod, Horise smokes with th cooking grouse. Our good friend, Esquire Cook, lead the field, and was never more in his glory. Our host and hostess are equal to the work, and an epicurean feast awaits the nightly return of the hunter. from the chase. Two hundred and eight were brought down to-day, and we understand more game will be bagged to morrow. Harrah for the hunters!

PRESENT FOR GEN. GRANT.—The friends of Gen. Grant in this city wish to present him with the army chest now on exhibition at Denell's jewelry store... Subscriptions will be received at the following places: Dra Treat & Dodge's office, D. Davies' store, and the Central Bank.

GREEN COUNTY DELEGATES .- N. H. Bradshaw and Otis Ross are delegates from the northern assembly district in Green county to the republican state convention. They are for the nomination of Gov. Salomon.

RELIGIOUS NOTICE .- Rev. Thomas E. St. John, Universalist, formerly of this city, but lately of Worcester, Mass., will preach at the court room on Sunday, (to morrow,) at five o'clock P. M.

- SALOONS'TO BE SHUT UP ON SUNDAY .--The mayor has issued a proclamation that all the saloons in the city shall be closed on Sunday. This is in accordance with the charter and laws of the state, and an en forcement of the terms of the licenses under which all dealers are bound. There is no reason why they should not be made amenable to the laws promoting good or der like ali other oitizens. We presume they will so understand it, and conform to the requirements of the proclamation. -FIREMEN'S: TOURNAMENT. -An effort is now making by the firemen to raise by subecription among our citizens enough money to invite to this city, by proper premiums, fire companies from abroad to make a trial of their engines. All will remember the interest such trials have heretofore given our state and county fairs, and should the efforts now making be successful, and the firemen in various places in the state come here, it will assemble a darge number of people living outside the city to witness the trial. There are several kinds of business in the city which such an assemblage would greatly benefit, and the proprietors can well afford to contribute liberally to the proposed fund. Our citizens generally, too, have an interest in aiding the firemen in this undertaking, in the increased spirit and efficiency it would, infuse into the department. We wish the the effort now making may be successful. Our passions are like convulsive fits, which, thought they imake its stronger for a moment, yet leave us as much weaker affer-

We have made the above Reduction in Prices with the two-fold view of benefitting thopublic and ourselves. The public have been swindled by spurious machines made in initiation of ours. The metal in them, from the iron casting to the smallest piece, is of poor quality. Their makers have not the means to detheir work well. They are hid away in ascret places, where it would be impossible to have at their command the proper mechanical appliances. It is only by doing a great business, and having extensive means at moderate prices. The best designed machines can be under at moderate prices. The best designed machines, itself Made, are sixed considerable trouble and maney to keep them in repair. The qualities to be looked for in a trachine are certainty of correct action of all rules of preed, simplicity of construction, great airrability and regularize are certain qualities, must be made of the best medical distinction, with the lear labor. Muchines to combine these assential qualities, must be made of the best medical distinction preed and reduced a first and scale, to do this.

The purchasers of machines, whose daily bread it may concern, will find that those having the above qualities not only work woil at rapid as well us slow rates of speed, but less long in the finest possible working order. Our machines, are made by us, will carn no concern, with less tables they are cheaper than any other machines as gift.
